Action, Excitement to Rule Cage Turney

First 3 Games Thursday Night On WHS Court

In just a matter of hours, a banner crowd of basketball fans—each one an ardent and articulate supporter of his favorite high school team—will jam the Washington C. H. high school gym for the first round of the 1958 county basketball tournament Thursday night.

Cheering and shouting their loyalties, the fans will be trying to make four different teams the county champion for 1958. They won't all come away happy, because only one team can wear the crown.

But, even for the losers, the tournament, which begins here Thursday night, will furnish excitement, pageantry, high spirits and 10 days full of frenzied activity.

There will be plenty of fast action and precision basketball, supplied by the 150 boys who make up the varsity, reserve and junior high teams in the four county schools. The fans will get a chance to let off steam under the direction of the four sets of cheerleaders.

AND THERE will be all the "extras" without which the tournament wouldn't seem real: the noise, the heat, the pace, the gallons of hot coffee and soft drinks.

Bloomingburg's Bulldogs, coached by Everett Rudolph, go into the tourney as defending champs, by virtue of their sudden-death victory in the event a year ago. Jeffersonville, champs in the county league this year, has shown that it will be a powerful threat.

But neither team can count on top spot, because the record book means nothing at tournament time. Madison Mills and Wayne, runners-up during the regular season and at last year's tourney, could just as well come through this year as either of the others.

TICKET price has been raised slightly this year, but Harold Thomas, Wayne principal and tournament manager, says he doesn't expect this to cut into the tournament crowd at all.

Door tickets will be sold at 75 cents each, and student tickets, purchased beforehand in the

180,458 Ohioans Continue To Get Idle Pay Benefits

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio's unemployment rate is reflected in the number of persons drawing unemployment benefits from the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation increased sharply last week.

The BUC reported today that 180,458 continuing claims were on file for the week ended Feb. 8. This compares with 171,710 continuing claims for the previous week. At this time last year the BUC carried only 71,124 persons on its claim rolls.

The number of new claims for unemployment compensation has remained fairly steady now for four weeks. For the week ended Feb. 8 the number of new claims filed was 26,720. This compares with 26,359 claims filed for the week ended Feb. 1, 24,897 for the week ended Jan. 25 and 26,551 for the week ended Jan. 18.

$2 Billion Postal Program Is Asked

President Moves To Provide Jobs To Take Up Slack

Postal Rate Hike Proposed To Meet Expense of Project

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower, moving to shore up the slumping economy, sent to Congress today a $2 billion program to modernize postoffices and postal services.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty, disclosing plans for the postal modernization program, described it as one expected to "afford greater job opportunities in every section of the country."

Eisenhower proposed to finance it with revenues from an increase in postage rates. His request for a boost in postage on out-of-town letters from 3 to 5 cents faces an uphill fight in Congress.

Hagerty said "I think it would be fair" to describe the postal program as part of the administration's planning to combat the economic slump.

The announcement came on the heels of a Labor and Commerce Department report that the number of unemployed had soared 1,120,000 last month, biggest monthly rise since World War II, to a total of 4,494,000.

THE WHITE HOUSE announced said the postal program would operate over the next three to five years.

Prompt endorsement came from the National Assn. of Postmasters and from Richard J. Gray, president of the AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Department.

Most of the building would be financed by private interests, under the lease-purchase law which permits the government to authorize such construction under a long-term lease arrangement. The government

$8.3 Million Given Local Governments By Liquor Agency

COLUMBUS (AP)—Local governments received more than $8.3 million in revenue collected by the Ohio Department of Liquor Control in 1957.

Robert B. Krupansky, liquor director, said the money came through fees charged for more than 40,000 permits issued by the department last year to 23,500 vendors, manufacturers, and distributors of alcoholic beverages in Ohio.

"Sometimes when it rained, when there was thunder and lightning, I'd get a little scared," McCray told the reporters in the interview, portions of which are quoted here.

McCray talked of the first murder State Police say he has admitted—that of Daisy F. Gilbert, 75, in her Oxford, Ala., home during February, 1956.

"My friend said to me 'I know where there's some money near the county line. Let's go get it.'

"I asked him 'What if we get caught?' So we decided to kill her."

They stole $80 and a pistol.

FROM THERE McCray went his way alone, landing ultimately in Ohio. Again there came a need for money. The victim that time, with

Bigger Post Office Here Is Now Possibility Again

SINCE THEN, several small enlargement plans have been suggested, but nothing ever came of them either.

Ever since the "cigar box" office was built here in 1924, it has been too small to properly accommodate the business transacted in it. For many years the overcrowded condition and lack of proper facilities had made it necessary to use the basement as well as the main floor to handle parts of the mail.

Rural carriers have had cramped quarters and the clerical force has been cramped into space too small for proper handling routine.

Now President Eisenhower is proposing a building modernization program which would affect 2,500 present buildings and 12,000 leased structures.

In all probability, because of the urgency of the need here for larger quarters, and the plans already made for enlarging the present building, the building here may be among the first to receive attention—if and when the president's plan is adopted.

Obviously troubled about the business recession, the President got out a special statement and also released a study reporting on government steps to combat it.

"From the best advice I can get, and on my own study of the facts regularly placed before me, I believe that we have had most of our bad news on the employment front," he said.

"I am convinced that we are not facing a prolonged downswing in activity."

"EVERY INDICATION is that March will commence to see the start of a pickup in job opportunities, that should mark the beginning of the end of the downturn in our economy, provided we apply ourselves with confidence to the job ahead. As Americans we have a responsibility to work toward the early resumption of sound growth in our economy."

Five days later, in Atlanta, he killed again. Dead was Robert Hunt, 53, Beaten and left for dead was Mrs. Carrie Hanbury, 76, mother of the victim. She still lives, mentally incompetent.

The loot was $90. Mrs. Hanbury, authorities said, was raped.

"Everyone I ever robbed I killed," McCray said.

Angry Tunisians Move on French

PARIS (AP)—Angry Tunisians pressed military and diplomatic reprisals against France to day as the French Assembly backed its Algerian command in the bombing of a Tunisian village.

France braced for further international repercussions after the Assembly gave Premier Félix Gaillard a thumping 339-179 vote of support. Gaillard defended Saturday's air strike against Sakiet Sidi Youssef as an act of "legitimate defense," against Algerian rebels based in Tunisia.

Tunisia said the attack left 68 wounded and 10 missing and denied the border town was a rebel base.

The Tunisian government of President Habib Bourguiba launched a campaign to starve out the 15,000 to 20,000 French troops still in Tunisia and French naval forces based at the big Bizerte base.

Tunisian National Guardsmen were reported blocking the land approaches to the Bizerte base and threatening to fire on any French ships entering the port.

The Census Bureau has said that the decline last month was about twice normal.

"I have confidence in the recovery of our economy later this year for two reasons," Eisenhower said.

"First, it is my conviction that the underlying forces of growth remain strong and undiminished."

"Second, the firm policy of the government is to foster the recovery in every sound way."

The President said everyone is deeply concerned over the hardships that the unemployment figures reflect for the families of the additional breadwinners temporarily out of work, and those that have gone on a shortened work week."

Tunisian threats to blockade Bizerte with sunken shipping touched off a flurry of speculation.

Tax Payment Deadline Here Midnight Saturday

Nearly half of the total tax charged against Fayette County real estate to be paid in two installments this year has been paid, but an estimated 60 per cent of those who paid their taxes for the first half also paid them for the second half, not due until June, it was pointed out at the office of Treasurer Charles A. Fabb today.

This means, it was explained, that there are only three days left for many who have not paid their first half taxes to get in ahead of the Saturday midnight deadline.

The treasurer's office, along with other Court House offices, was closed today for the Lincoln's Birthday holiday. That leaves only Thursday and Friday and until noon Saturday to get into the office. However, checks may be put in the mail up to midnight Saturday to beat the deadline.

Treasurer Fabb repeated that taxpayers can simplify their tax paying by sending checks by mail. He commented that with so many taxes still unpaid, there may be a rush at the office during the remaining days of the current collection period.

Senator Plans To Return Probe Files

Morse Says Papers Show Administration Tied to Wrong-Doing

WASHINGTON — Sen. Morse (D-Ore) said today he would return files given him by a House subcommittee aide who was ousted in a row over a probe of federal regulatory agencies. Morse said he also would demand a Senate probe of the same matters.

The senator reported that he had read the files and that they "prove the administration is honeycombed with political immorality."

The ousted subcommittee aide, Dr. Bernard Schwartz, has said the material he gave Morse could help show that some White House officials "have influenced actions of the regulatory agencies."

Schwartz said he turned over his "personal working files" to Morse Monday after he was fired as chief counsel of the special House subcommittee investigating the Federal Communications Commission and five other regulatory agencies.

REP. HARRIS Work Program

Faster Government Action Said Needed

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — Organized labor expressed doubt today that the nation's lagging economy will begin recuperating at midyear as President Eisenhower anticipates and called for quick government remedial action.

Harris said lack of the files would be "a great handicap," but would not necessarily block the House probe. Meantime, he posted a guard over present committee files to prevent any more disappearing.

Schwartz, after a day of angry quarreling with the subcommittee, charged there is an effort to camouflage corruption charges.

He accused a majority of the subcommittee of joining "an unholy alliance between big business and the White House to obtain a whitewash" of the investigation into the regulatory agencies.

His firing, he charged, stopped him from revealing "the machinations of the White House clique in controlling decisions of these agencies."

Schwartz said the "clique" included Sherman Adams, chief White House assistant; White House counsel Gerald Morgan, Secretary of Commerce Weeks; Gordon Moore, Mrs. Eisenhower's brother-in-law; and former New York Gov. Tom Dewey.

Schwartz told reporters he was not sure what was in the documents he carried to Morse in a large suitcase and big box. He said they included copies of government documents.

Later he said, "There is certainly evidence in the files which indicates Mr. Adams and the others have influenced actions of the regulatory agencies."

Schwartz said he was asked Monday night by Morse and Sen. Williams (R-Del) to call on them separately with his personal papers. He said he visited Williams first and then went on to see Morse, where he left the papers.

Williams declared he didn't have papers belonging either to Schwartz or the committee.

Heights, Va. There, according to his confession, McCray killed Mrs. Virginia Maclin Stevens, 74, a widow. The loot was $6.

HEADED OUT of town, Jeremiah got as far as Fredericksburg some 70 miles north. He was stopped for questioning in Mrs. Stevens' death, even subjected to a lie detector test. It showed some reaction. In the meantime, a suspect had been charged. McCray was freed.

"That lie detector test ain't much," grinned McCray.

Nine days ago came slaying No. 5. The victim was Mrs. Jeanette M. Griffin, 49-year-old Caroline County widow. She, too, was raped.

This time the law caught up with Jeremiah. Caroline County Sheriff R. Garnett Brooks picked him up in a shack where he lived.

"I just decided to tell 'em everything," explained McCray.

WHAT ABOUT the electric chair? "Hush, man, don't talk that talk," he told the reporters. "They keep saying that 'lectric chair stuff in jail. I tell 'em to hush it up."

McCray will stand trial March 8 for Mrs. Griffin's death. He is charged with murder and rape and indicted yesterday by a Caroline County circuit court grand jury.

Also indicted yesterday on murder and rape charges in the same killing was Rush Reager, 20, Negro, whose trial date was set for March 15.

Labor Urging Work Program

Faster Government Action Said Needed

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — Organized labor expressed doubt today that the nation's lagging economy will begin recuperating at midyear as President Eisenhower anticipates and called for quick government remedial action.

That was the reaction of President George Meany and other AFL-CIO leaders to the government's announcement in Washington that unemployment jumped beyond 4½ million in January.

Meany forecast that the jobless figure will rise at least another million before the employment situation improves. He called for a stepped-up public works program and other stop-gap measures immediately.

"I think the situation is far worse than the administration seems to feel it is," Meany said. "Frankly, it's getting to the point now where unemployment is creating more unemployment. We need quick action to bolster purchasing power to stop this from rolling in a vicious circle."

THE AFL-CIO leader pledged to work throughout the country with community groups to develop an effective program to see that no jobless worker or his family will go without food, clothing, shelter or medical care.

At concluding sessions of the 10-day AFL-CIO winter meetings, the union leaders ordered all affiliated unions to insist on free national labor contract clauses barring racial discrimination in the nation's working places.

Unions also were instructed to create procedures within their own organizations to carry out a meaningful civil rights program."

Don't Let Lincoln's Photos Fool You

Honest Abe Always Enjoyed a Laugh

By EVAN CHARLES

Central Press Assn.
When America remembers Abe Lincoln on his birthday this month, most of us will picture him as a very sad, almost somber, person. Of all the many photographs and paintings of the Civil war President not a single one shows him wearing a smile.

Certainly, there were problems aplenty in Lincoln's life to make him melancholy. Nevertheless, he was in fact a man with a ready wit, a sharp sense of the ridiculous and a genuine good humor.

One of the earliest books Lincoln was able to lay his hands on as a youth was the famous "Joe Miller's Jest Book."

The jokes it contained were already 100 years old when the rail-splitter read them. Still, Abe told many of them—"although he had a thousand fresher ones of his own."

In fact, when young Lincoln was elected to the Illinois state legislature, he was recognized as "the champion story teller of the capitol." When he relaxed, his favorite seat was at the left of the open fireplace, tilted back in his chair, with his long legs reaching over to the chimney jamb.

AT SUCH happy moments, his friends said "he never told a story twice, but seemed to have an endless repertoire always ready!"

"If three pigeons are sitting on a fence and you shoot and kill one of them, how many will be left?" Lincoln would ask. And one of his acquaintances would answer: "Two."

"No," the future President would answer, "there wouldn't be any left because the other two would fly away!"

Another time the whole state capitol turned out in lavish mourning for a politician who had passed on. Lincoln was saddened by death as any human being, but he knew the departed politician as a vain, self-seeking hack.

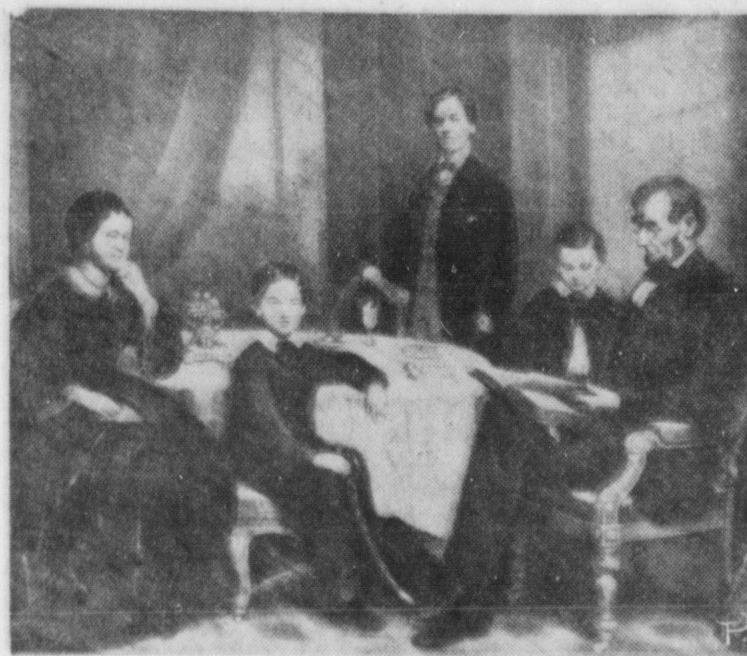

"If General Blank had only known how big a funeral he would have," remarked Lincoln, "he would have died years ago!"

IN SPRINGFIELD, Lincoln spent much of his time fighting cases in court.

Many were dull, dry, drawn-out affairs, but the backwoods lawyer had the ability to put both judge and jury in jovial humor—while at the same time registering important legal points in the trial.

Opposition lawyers sputtered in rage and occasionally, of course, the judge lost his patience with this beano-pol who was continually upsetting the dignity of the court.

After one prank, the judge said,

The Lincoln family portrait made in 1861. Here again the Great Emancipator is depicted in a solemn mood.

I am not going to stand for this any longer, Mr. Lincoln. You're always disturbing this court with your tomfoolery and I fine you $5."

AFTERWARD, in private, however, the judge asked to hear the joke that had tickled the court. Lincoln repeated it and the judge was so amused he cancelled the fine.

Before one trial, there was a scuffle in front of the courthouse and a friend of Lincoln had his pants ripped in the fray.

When the petition reached Lincoln, he smiled and wrote his answer with a wonderful double meaning: "I can contribute nothing to the end in view."

A favorite tale of the ill-starred position concerned a man who was convicted of murder and sentenced to be hanged.

On his way to the gallows, however, the prisoner begged that "the rope might be tied under his arms instead of around his neck—for I am so ticklish in the throat that if I was tied there, I'd certainly kill myself with laughing!"

LINCOLN used a joke when other people might get angry. Given something distasteful to drink in a restaurant one day, he called the waiter and said, "If this is coffee, please bring me some tea. However, if this is tea, bring me some coffee."

Dr. Persinger Takes Club on Picture Tour

Rotarians, at their luncheon meeting Tuesday, enjoyed a trip into 11 countries of Europe through the medium of beautifully colored stereoptican pictures taken by Dr. Jack Persinger, who made a 35-day conducted tour there last summer with his family.

Dr. Persinger, presented by Dr. Frank King, gave a running description of the sights shown on the screen, explaining many interesting historical details of several of them.

The Persinger tour included England, Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg, Germany, Switzerland, Liechtenstein, Austria, Italy, Monte Carlo, France and the French Riviera.

To lovers of scenery the pictures obtained by Dr. Persinger in the motor coach trip through the Alps of eastern Switzerland, were outstanding.

AT THE CLOSE of his presentation the speaker declared, "As we

During the brief business session of the club Vice President Joe Campbell subbing for President Robert Haigler who is away on a vacation trip, announced that on March 19 there will be a dinner meeting of the club to include Rotarian Annas. A special program is being arranged for this occasion.

It was announced that there were visiting Rotarians or guests at the meeting for the first time in

Defense Sec'y McElroy Starts Off Well

Mostly commendation and very little criticism has been heard over the manner in which N. H. McElroy has been taking over his duties since being named to the Eisenhower Cabinet as Secretary of Defense.

He is seemingly highly respected by his associates and others with whom he has come in contact and has shown a stature free of the wiles which most people expect to find among higher political appointees. So far he has given evidence of maintaining the high business like attitude and frankness which brought him success in business life.

The esteem in which he seems to be held by Congressmen and others down at Washington D. C., and also members of the press, are due to his principles of good management and his willingness to carefully weigh the wavering winds of public opinion without being thrown out of stride; also the comments of people of all classes. His sense of humor and his mental balance wins confidence.

Such a man seems able, by keeping abreast of public opinion, actually to help form and direct it. This kind of leadership is rare at any time and highly desirable at a time like the present.

Of Dogs...and People

I shall now be repressed or suppressed by the Cocker Spaniel Anti-Discrimination Society, generally known as CSADS. I live in terror of what they may do to me.

For the Cocker Spaniels are up in legs against me as a Cocker Spaniel hater, a mar of violent prejudices, a follower of Hitler and other vile creatures.

I plead that some of my best friends are Cocker Spaniels. My true love is Joe, the Keeshond, but my prejudices against other dogs are only skin deep. True to tell, my old dog, Brownie, now deceased and gently buried on slope of hill in a grove of young hemlocks, under a blanket of petunias and sweet alissums, was what goes by the name of a plain mutt, without significant ancestry.

Brownie was a lovable dog whose memory remains green among all who knew her because she was so gentle and kindly, so grateful for small rewards and always knowing her place.

Joe is not like Brownie at all. He likes to rule and lord it over mere mortals whose blood does not go back, at least, to William of Orange.

Brownie would obey and be quiet; but Joe has to talk, which can, indeed, become a bore. For, those who have nothing to say always want to be heard.

THERE'S A LADY in the suburbs who is determined that when her 12-year-old Herbert grows up, he will be not only a Fred Astaire, but a Winston Churchill. With that in view, she marches him to dancing school every Wednesday afternoon, and sits grimly at the ringside to see that he not only pushes little girls around the room, more or less in time with the music, but engages them in conversation at the same time.

Recently Herbert was executing what he believed to be a foxtrot with a brand new partner when he caught his mother's signal: "Engage her in conversation!" He took a deep breath, and gallantly informed his lady fair, "Say, you step faster than any fat girl I ever danced with!"

Smoking Has Bearing On Buerger's Disease

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

DOCTORS can argue all they want about whether smoking causes cancer. But there is virtually no argument that smoking is involved in thromboangiitis (cg) obliterans.

This often incapacitating ailment, which you probably will recognize by the more common name—Buerger's disease—rarely strikes nonsmokers.

Inflammatory Process

Buerger's disease is an inflammatory process in the blood vessels, usually in the legs or arms. It is confined almost exclusively to men between the ages of 21 and 45.

While we can't say definitely that smoking is the only cause, we do know that smoking constricts the blood vessels. We also know that the symptoms generally disappear when the patient stops smoking.

Tingling Sensation

The first symptoms generally are a tingling sensation and a feeling of burning or coldness in the affected limb. While they usually are so mild at the beginning that they may be ignored, they become more severe as the disease progresses.

If the disease attacks your legs, sooner or later it will make walking extremely difficult. As it advances, you will be able to walk less and less.

When Resting

The legs probably will pain even when you are resting. Of—or tuberculosis.

ten you will notice a dull aching at night.

To get relief, hang the foot outside the covers and over the edge of the bed. If that doesn't help, walking around the room might alleviate the ache.

A victim of Buerger's disease must take extremely good care of his hands and feet to avoid reduction of the flow of blood and development of gangrene.

For example, you should wear wool socks and soft shoes that fit well.

Use Warm Water

Wash your hands and feet in warm water that is neither too hot nor too cold. After washing, always rub the area gently with olive oil or some other ointment designed to keep the skin soft.

There are other precautions which I will tell you about in another column. But the two most important rules I can give to anyone with Buerger's disease are:

1. See your doctor and follow his instructions.

2. Absolutely no smoking.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

C. B.: Recently I have been getting a burning of the eyes. Would this be caused by a vitamin deficiency?

Answer: Burning of the eyes can be due to an allergy, infection, a growth in the ear, to a lack of vitamins, or to anemia.

The Nation Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some people cut their throats once, and that's enough. But the natural gas people are beginning to make a hobby of it.

They spend a lot of money trying to get through Congress a natural gas bill which will free them of government price control and mean millions for them.

Then, by primitive tactics, they wreck their chance. They did that in 1956. In Texas this week they just about ruined any hope for passage of a gas bill this year.

They were going well in 1956, with President Eisenhower favorable toward a natural gas bill and the Democratic and Republican leaders in Congress behind it.

Then suddenly Sen. Case (R-SD) shocked the country by telling the Senate some lawyer he didn't know had dropped $2,500 into his re-election campaign fund. And Case said he thought it was done to influence his vote on the bill.

Democrats and Republicans teamed up anyway to pass the bill. But by now there was an odor from this piece of gas legislation and Eisenhower vetoed it.

After a Senate investigation of Case's charges, two lawyer-lobbyists — John M. Neff and Elmer Patman, both employed by the Superior Oil Co. of California, pleaded guilty in court to lobbying without registering as lobbyists.

They were fined $2,500 each and given suspended one-year jail sentences. The company was fined $10,000 for "aiding and abetting" the failure of Neff and Patman to register as lobbyists.

Neff said he put the money — which he said he got from Patman — into Case's fund without any intention of influencing his vote. Patman said he got the money from Howard P. Keck, president of Superior Oil.

In 1958 Congress passed a law giving the government control over the price of gas moving across state lines. The gas-oil people have been trying to get a new law canceling out the old one.

After the 1956 disaster, with no action in 1957, a new try was to be made this year. On Monday night Rep. Joseph Martin, House Republican leader, was given a $100-a-plate dinner in Houston.

They wanted man used aliases of D. F. Thayer, Donald Francis Thayer and John Dwyer. His occupation is salesman and reportedly he drinks alcoholic beverages to excess.

DESCRIPTION: Age, 54; Born, Malden, Mass.; Height, 5 feet 10 1/2 inches; Weight, 170 to 180; Build, medium; Hair, brown, graying; Eyes, blue; Complexion, ruddy. Four-inch scar on right side of forehead, four moles right side of face, mole under left eye, mole on left side of face and mole under chin.

Tex. Martin was the speaker at what he said was "just another one of those Republican fund-raising dinners."

It was put on by H. J. (Jack) Porter, Republican national committeeman and an Eisenhower supporter from away back.

But the Washington Post brought to light a letter written by Porter Jan. 30 to boost the sale of tickets for the dinner.

The letter said it would be up to Martin, described as a friend of the bill, "to muster at least 65 per cent of the Republican votes in order to pass the gas bill this year."

And the letter added: "The dinner must raise substantial amounts of money for the Republican party as part of these will go towards the election of Republican congressmen and senators."

The post estimated the dinner raised $100,000.

After this letter appeared in the Post Tuesday, the Eisenhower administration and the Republican party leadership began denying any knowledge of it. Eisenhower's press secretary James C. Hagerty said no one at the White House had known.

Meade Alcorn, Republican national chairman, said the same, plus this: "The Republican National Committee will not accept any funds from the proceeds of the Houston dinner."

Martin, too, denied any knowledge of the letter but said he would vote for the bill.

Another Republican, Sen. Aiken of Vermont, said: "It's odd the people who can amass millions of judgment."

This whole episode gave support to opponents of the bill. It's bound to make Democrats and Republicans who'd like to vote for it a little self-conscious. No one now sees a rosy future for the bill.

Following Thayer's arraignment, he was released on bail. When he failed to appear in court on Feb. 14, 1955, a warrant for his arrest was issued on that date by a United States District Court of Boston.

A motion for forfeiture of bond relative to Thayer was allowed by a United States District Court at Boston on June 24, 1957. Subsequently he was indicted on Oct. 4, 1957, by a Federal Grand Jury at Boston for violation of the Bail Jumper Statute.

The wanted man used aliases of D. F. Thayer, Donald Francis Thayer and John Dwyer. His occupation is salesman and reportedly he drinks alcoholic beverages to excess.

Valentine Party Enjoyed by Adult Class

The Adult Class of the South Side Church of Christ met in the Church Monday night for a Valentine party and regular meeting.

Mr. Sheldon Grubb, president, conducted the meeting, which was opened with prayer by Mrs. Guy Brooks.

Various class projects were discussed. Mrs. Charles Hooks was appointed to sponsor a contest in the primary department of the Bible School for the collection of sales tax stamps.

Prayer, by Mrs. Hooks, closed the business session.

Devotions, conducted by Mr. Frank Creamer, included group singing of hymns and a vocal duet presented by Mrs. Paul Smith and Mrs. Hooks, with Mrs. Frank Creamer playing the piano accompaniment.

Mr. Creamer's topic was "The Providence of God." He stressed that "Christian living is more important than anything in the world, even more important than accepting Christ and then rejecting Him." He also stated that 21 books of the Bible are devoted mostly to Christian living.

The meeting was closed with prayer.

A delicious dessert course, using the Valentine theme, was served by the hostesses for the evening, Mrs. Nelson Secrets, Mrs. Andy Hill, Mrs. Guy Patton, Mrs. Ronald Clay, Mrs. Frank Coulter, Mrs. Charles Wescup, Mrs. Hershel Reed, Mrs. Dwight Foy, Mrs. Hooks and Mrs. Bernard Huffman.

Capital Aide Hopes Everyone Makes Himself 'at Home'

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP)—To Joseph F. Donohue's way of thinking, the nation's capital is everyone's second home.

Donohue, now president of Recreation Services, Inc., says we have a very special responsibility in making the millions who visit us annually feel at home, but an "even greater responsibility towards the very young men in uniform who have to stay in uniform is most acute." She urges every town near an Armed Forces installation to step up its hospitality program to help bolster the spirit and dispel some of the loneliness of the men.

Washington, leave and weekend mecca for scores of nearby military bases in Virginia and Maryland, sometimes has an influx of as many as 20,000 servicemen in a single weekend, according to Armed Services Police. Many of these, over the years, have been calling Washington their best leave town."

This is partly due to the Armed Services Hospitality Committee. It provided social and recreational facilities to many thousands during World War II. It was reactivated in 1950. Donohue is chairman of the committee of more than 80 civic and social leaders appointed by the District Commissioners.

Besides advising service personnel where to go and what to see, the committee found clean and inexpensive lodgings for about 19,500 military men in 1957. It is said more than 55,000 free and cut-rate tickets to sports events, movies, theaters, symphony concerts, and the circus; arranged 78 sightseeing trips for more than 3,000, and answered some 33,000 questions.

From the servicemen's point of view, tops in the committee's endeavors is finding them dates. Last year the group enlisted 19,540 girls to attend servicemen's dances.

Attending this affair were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Shepherd, Pomeroy, Wash., last week's guests of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Heistand, were honored with a covered dish luncheon in the Heistand home Thursday.

The Rev. C. S. Clansen was elected president and Mr. Robert Hall, vice president.

The Kum Join Us Class of the Sedalia Methodist Church elected a new class president and vice president at a meeting held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Alshaugh.

The Rev. C. S. Clansen was elected president and Mr. Robert Hall, vice president.

Special music for the evening was furnished by the Rev. and Mrs. Clansen.

The next meeting has been scheduled for March 7. This will be a potluck supper in the church and the Newport Methodist Church has been invited to attend.

Delicious refreshments were served to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Brown and daughters; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morris and sons, Good Hope; Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Morris, Bloomingburg; Mr. Dale Summers, Wilmington; Mr. and Mrs. Max Whiteside and daughters.

Selling Effort Hiked in Fight On Recession

Consumer Is Wooed With New Promotion And Sales Gimmicks

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Companies are pepping up their selling efforts today as a cure — for their own firm at least — for the recession.

They are wooing the consumer with promotions and gimmicks from trading stamps to discount price cuts. They are looking to the colleges to turn out more good salesmen — and egging on the ones they have to try harder.

They are making pleas to the buying public to keep the purse strings loose in everyone's interest. George P. Hitchings, manager of the economic analysis department of Ford Motors, says buying at the normal rate can keep the slump from going deeper.

They plan conferences to convince consumers they should upgrade their eating, clothing and housing standards.

And through their representatives they are urging Uncle Sam to come to their aid by cutting taxes to release more buying power and by increasing government spending which will trickle down from the companies getting the orders to the employees they rehire and those their suppliers rehire.

In some ways it's an uphill job.

Take a few examples:

J. D. Staunton, director of training, National Starch Products Inc., says a survey of 31 colleges in 25 states shows that many college men look on a selling job not as a career but as a way to find about a company in preparation for stepping into a management job.

Businessmen ought to step in and help change this, Staunton says — and even more they ought to have better training schools of their own for the college man arriving on the job.

Homer R. Davison, president of the American Meat Institute, blames the trend on "food fads, self-prescribed diets and the American tendency to hurry and rush" which result in "meals lacking the nutrients essential for good health."

He says some farmers, processors, distributors and merchandisers are dropping their own rivalries to plug for more emphasis on consumption of better food.

Americans have gone on increasing their food spending each year, even if their purchases aren't for as nutritious diets as the food men approve.

30 Common Pleas Court Cases Set for Trial Here in April

Eight jury and 22 non-jury trials have been docketed for the April term of the Common Pleas Court here, Common Pleas Judge John P. Case announced Tuesday.

First of the 30 trials will begin at 9 a.m. April 15 — the day after grand jury meets — Judge Case noted.

Continuance and postponement of matters already docketed must be requested in affidavit and motion not less than 30 days prior to the trial date, he said.

All trials begin at 9 a.m. Here's a list of the 30:

Valentines--When Did Custom Start?

By MIKE SPOONER
Central Press Assn.

If you find yourself sputtering with rage when you open your mail Friday morning, Feb. 14, it may be comforting to remember that there was an original St. Valentine who choked to death on a fishbone.

There was also another St. Valentine who lost his head because he refused to renounce Christianity.

Of course, neither of these Valentines should be blamed for the fact that some distinctly uncouth things will be said in their names this week.

In fact, nobody's sure exactly why insulting—or loving—Messages are exchanged every 14th of February.

However, the exchange of Valentine Day cards is a deeply-rooted American custom. In fact, over 40 million such cards are mailed in the United States annually.

How did it all get started?

IT SEEMS there were no fewer than seven different Saint Valentines. However, the one who most likely originated the modern holiday seems to have been a Third Century physician and preacher of Christianity who refused Roman demands that he renounce his religious faith.

Legend says that before he went to his death, this physician-preacher cured his jailer's daughter of blindness and sent her a farewell note which ended with the words: "From your Valentine." He died on Feb. 14, in the year 271.

According to another story, the modern St. Valentine's Day springs from a Roman custom by which each year all the boys in town drew from a grab-bag the names of the girls to whom they had to be faithful for the following 12 months.

This custom still exists in some parts of France today.

However, while every boy is drawing a girl's name, the girls are drawing boys' names, too, so every teenager is assured of having two soulmates during the coming year.

SOMEWHERE along the line, somebody started using St. Valentine's Day as an occasion for exchanging expressions of romantic regard. At first, they were all flowery and sweetly sentimental. Lace paper and ribboned frippery became a highly skilled art as Valentine gallants sought to outdo one another.

England's Queen Elizabeth I introduced a more sober note with Valentine cards bearing a picture of a head-man's ax! The implication plainly was "Be faithful to your queen—or face the consequences."

Good Queen Bess wasn't kidding, either. Several of her admirers—notably the Earl of Essex—wound up on the chopping block.

Shakespeare helped popularize Valentine's Day in his play, Hamlet. In this play, Ophelia sings: "Good morrow to Saint Valentine's Day—and I to be your Valentine."

IN THE 1600s, English girls went to sleep on St. Valentine's Day with hard-boiled eggs under their pillows.

Superstition had it that in this way, the "man of her dreams" would appear that night and eventually become her husband.

It was during the Revolution that the Valentine custom spread to America.

In the 1840s Esther A. Howland of Worcester, Mass., decided that the United States should produce its own Valentine cards.

She did $5,000 worth of business her first year as a manufacturer of sentimental sayings, but died at 75—still a spinster!

Meanwhile, in England, a cynical approach to the holiday was starting to appear. Valentine's Day messages became venomous and also anonymous.

We still have these insult-type Valentines, of course, but in general our holiday messages still are sentimental or humorous. In a thousand different ways, they express the thought: "I like you!"

Cincy Police Probe Death Of Woman, 33

CINCINNATI—Police have only a vague description of a man they figure can shed a lot of light on the savage slaying of a Kentucky mother in a hotel room here.

A hotel maid discovered the nearly-nude body of Mrs. Margaret McAllister, 33-year-old working mother of Covington, Ky., Tuesday.

The body sprawled across a bed, bore stab wounds of the chest and head.

Police said a man had checked into the room Monday afternoon, signing the register as "Albert Wilson and wife" of New York.

But the best description of the man was only that he was tall, thin and about 45 years old.

Investigators said the woman had left her job in downtown Cincinnati Monday to keep a dental appointment.

O'Neill's Heart Attack Hikes Interest in Weight-Cutting

By REED SMITH

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Gov. C. William O'Neill's heart attack has made state officials and their would-be successors weight and diet conscious.

The governor carried excess poundage when stricken three weeks ago. Physicians encouraged by his rapid recovery, have cut down on his food intake in the hope O'Neill will shed about 20 pounds.

The 5 foot 4½ inch governor already has lost eight of his approximately 170 pounds. His target is 150 pounds. He laughingly refers to that as his "fighting weight."

O'Neill says he plans to wage an active campaign for governor, as soon as his recovery permits, but on a "reduced scale." Physicians have expressed belief he will be able to campaign but not at his former pace which often kept O'Neill on the go until 3 a.m. and got him up at 7 a.m. to keep commitments.

No date has been advanced as yet for the governor, who will be 42 next Friday, to return to his office, let alone campaign for reelection.

The work load faced by a governor was set forth in a letter O'Neill wrote to Jim Maccauley, Akron high school junior, in answer to the student's questions about his recreation. The reply said:

"Many persons don't realize this, but a governor has to work long hours. There is no five day, 40 hour week deal for any governor. It is a six or seven day week, 10 or 12 or more hours a day spent on the job, so I don't have much time for recreation."

"What spare time I manage to get, I like to spend with my two children. Dubby who is 11 and Peggy who is 8."

Aides in O'Neill's office said he often remained at his office evenings, after callers had gone, to dictate letters.

The governor and Mrs. O'Neill like spectator sports and frequently took their children to football and basketball games. They also like to listen to sports broadcasts at the mansion.

Her husband, Charles McAllister, a truck loader, had reported her missing early Tuesday. He said she had been depressed recently since the death of her mother.

Her husband, Charles McAllister, a truck loader, had reported her missing early Tuesday. He said she had been depressed recently since the death of her mother.

Investigators said the woman had left her job in downtown Cincinnati Monday to keep a dental appointment.

Because the governor does not play golf or participate in sports as a hobby, associates said he has a constant battle to keep his weight down. Being in demand to address luncheons and banquets doesn't help the situation, they added.

Even before O'Neill's illness, Michael V. DiSalle of Toledo was taking off weight to get in shape for another election battle with the governor. He was the 1956 Democratic gubernatorial candidate. DiSalle, described as Mr. Five by Five when he was federal price controller, had dropped 30 pounds. The five and a half foot Democratic standard bearer tips the scales at 185 pounds and is still shrinking.

Some of DiSalle's primary election opponents, who hope to beat him for the party nomination, displayed health consciousness. Albert S. Porter, Cuyahoga County engineer, told newsmen when he filed at the same time, says he feels fine.

U. S. Sen. John W. Bricker and incumbent state officials, all seeking reelection, display varying degrees of weight consciousness.

Bricker, Secretary of State Ted

W. Brown, Treasurer Roger W. Tracy and Atty. Gen. William Saxbe, all are six footers, give or take an inch or so. And all weigh around 200 pounds more or less.

Bricker has slimmed down considerably and says he intends to keep in trim. Brown and Tracy watch their weight and to some extent their diet. Saxbe, who weighs 195 pounds, said he would

People . . . Places . . . and Things

Round about Fayette County

In his "reminiscences of a Pioneer," written by Thomas Rodgers at Greenfield 87 years ago, he recounts experiences while he was a young man. One of these was his participation with a party of non-descript "militia" sent from Chillicothe to rout a band of Indians supposed to be camping along East Fork of Paint Creek.

It was the same expedition in which he told of killing a bear in the "barrens" near where Bloomingburg now stands. That was in the spring of 1803, or 155 years ago.

The "barrens" undoubtedly referred to a considerable area covered with big and little blue stem grass, which was as much swamp grass as prairie grass, it seems, and grew in abundance over large tracts in this part of Ohio, to the exclusion of all forest trees.

These "barrens" were great places for deer, bear and other animals, and were frequently set on fire and burned over during the late fall to drive game out where it could be killed.

But what I started to tell you was reference made to the party camping at "Willow Spring's" along East Fork of Paint Creek before most of the party turned back toward Chillicothe, without having seen an Indian.

I am told that "Willow Springs" is located on the former Nathaniel Vesey farm, within 200 or 300 yards of Route 38, where a large clump of willows surrounded a sizeable spring, fed by water from "White Oak Ridge" to the east. The farm is now owned by Frank Stephenson and farmed by his son Forest.

Since I was a boy I have known the farm thoroughly but like other residents I never knew the spring was "Willow Spring."

It is on the east side of Paint Creek, immediately southwest of the farm house on the Arthur Finley farm, which formerly was part of the Nathaniel Vesey farm.

It was while this expedition was out that the peaceful Indian Chief, Waw-wil-a-way was brutally murdered near Frankfort by a white man. The Indian situation again became critical for some time afterward, causing a general rush of settlers to the stockade at Frankfort.

RARE WHITE SQUIRREL

I know his name was not "Perri," which has the leading role in Walt Disney's picture shown at the Fayette Theater here this week, and which is one of the most wonderful nature pictures I have ever seen, but some 18 years ago there was a white squirrel living within the city.

A RARE ALBINO SQUIRREL was seen here — and photographed — 18 years ago and, so far as known, none has been seen hereabouts since then. This one had a snow white body and a grayish-brown bushy tail. He posed for his picture in a tree on Circle Ave.

He was all white, (as can be seen in the accompanying picture) except his tail, which was a mixture of reddish-brown and white, for after all the rare white squirrel was an albino fox squirrel.

I do not doubt that "white" had just as many hair-breadth escapes as "Perri" does in the Disney picture, for he was beset on all sides by dogs, cats, children, grown ups, hawks and owls here in Washington C. H.

I had heard of the white squirrel many times before I had a chance to get a picture of him as he rested on the limb of a tree along Circle Ave. and posed, inquiringly, while I snapped him.

"Whitie" was a full-grown squirrel and he must have fallen prey to one of his natural enemies soon after the picture was taken, for it was the last I ever heard of the white squirrel.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

J. E. McLean was again chosen chairman of the Fayette County Fish and Game Protective Assn. banquet committee.

Many persons gathered up several pounds of roofing nails which bandits, who robbed People's and Drovers' Bank of $250,000 had scattered over Columbus Road for a mile to prevent pursuit.

Greenfield had $80,000 fire when Gray Elliott Co. and G. & E. Lumber Co. yards were burned. A pumper and crew were sent from Washington C. H. to aid in fighting the conflagration.

New Torpedo Tied To Navy Rocket

PASADENA, Calif. — A torpedo that is fired from a ship by rocket, lowered into the water by parachute, and then seeks out an enemy submarine automatically has been disclosed by the Navy.

The rocket-assisted torpedo, called "Rat" for short, will extend a ship's submarine-kill zone to many miles, the Navy said, adding that tests have shown Rat to be exceedingly accurate.

Rat is 16 feet long, weighs 450 pounds and was developed by the naval ordnance test station, whose facilities are located here and at China Lake, Calif.

Traffic Deaths Up One Percent

Rural Deaths Soar Sheriff Hays Notes

Ohio traffic deaths increased about one percent during 1957 but according to Sheriff Orland Hays, highway deaths in the rural areas were 3 percent higher than in 1956. Slightly more than half of all traffic accidents occur outside of municipalities, yet 7 out of 10 deaths are the result of rural collisions, he said.

The Sheriff said "we can't always put the blame on the other fellow. Three out of every ten crashes involve just one car while 60 percent of the deaths are traceable of single car crashes."

The two big groups of single vehicle accidents are "run off road" and pedestrian, he noted, saying: "By far the greater number of pedestrians are injured and killed in municipalities, and very few vehicles run off the road in the towns."

"The moral seems to be, if you would stay out of traffic trouble in Ohio's rural areas, drive carefully and lawfully and at such a speed that your car is always under control."

The boys discussed fire prevention methods and decided to inspect at least one building for fire hazards.

The boys also enjoyed games led by Dick Weeks.

Refreshments of ice cream and Coca-Cola were served by Dale Matthews and Donald Juillerat.

Findlay Ties Wilmington for League Lead

Quakers Idle as Oilers
Crush Ashland Quint;
Bluffton also Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Findlay moved into a tie with idle Wilmington for the Mid-Ohio League basketball leadership Tuesday night.

The Oilers crushed Ashland 112-76 to equal Wilmington's 7-1 league mark. The game was one of three Mid-Ohio contests.

Scoring honors went to Ashland's Ron Pratt with 27 points, but four of the Oilers scored in the 20s. George Killer had 24 points, Fred Polinski and Connie Walcutt had 23 apiece and Joe Hanauer sank 21.

In the other two games, Bluffton dropped Cedarville 90-64 and Defiance downed Ohio Northern 98-87.

Defiance's John Szabo was the league's big scorer with 33 points. Don Wilshaw tallied 30 for Ohio Northern and Abie Mast chipped in 26 for Bluffton.

Only one other conference battle was on schedule.

In that one, Oberlin's Joe Polkina dropped in two free throws with 37 seconds remaining to edge Capital 54-53. The Ohio Conference match was played on the Lutherans' floor.

The win avenged an earlier 98-64 drubbing at Westerville for Oberlin.

In non-conference play, Wooster of the Ohio Conference posted its ninth victory in 13 games, defeating Western Reserve (4-8) of the Presidents' Conference 86-67 in Cleveland.

Hiram College defeated Fenn 62-58 for the 24th time in 50 games dating back to 1929.

Three other teams faced out-of-state opponents and came off with a 3-2 advantage.

(Pa.) College 59-41 in Cleveland and Rio Grande edged Lawrence Tech at Detroit 74-72, but West Virginia State defeated Central State 69-54 at Institute, W. Va.

Hawks Move Closer to Cage Crown

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The St. Louis Hawks, despite their internal squabbles of the past week, are a step closer to the Western Division National Basketball Assn. title today, there by probably insuring Coach Alex Hannum's job for next season.

The Hawks, with some late hot shooting by Cliff Hagan, defeated the New York Knicks 107-105 and whittled their magic number to 10 (any such combination of wins and second place Cincinnati's losses) to clinch the division title.

The Boston Celts, with the same magic number, lost to Syracuse 84-76 in the first game of a Philly Convention Hall twinbill, after which the torrid Philadelphia Warriors defeated Detroit 115-98. Cincinnati knocked off Minneapolis 106-103 in the opener of the doubleheader at St. Louis.

Hagan went scoreless in the first half then sank a field goal with 5:05 to go, later broke a 10-10 tie and then added a three-pointer to wrap it up. Win Wilfong led the victors with 25, while Ken Sears paced the Knicks with 26.

Larry Costello, who scored 28, and Dolph Schayes with 20, led Syracuse. Bob Cousy, hitting only 4 of 30 floor shots, led Boston with 14 points.

Caribbean Series Knotted Tight

SAN JUAN (AP)—They start all over again tonight in the Caribbean baseball series after a quasi triple-header that scrambled things so much all four teams wound up tied after four rounds of play.

Favored Caguas of Puerto Rico, Cuba's Marianao champs, Valencia of Venezuela and Carta Vieja of Panama, each has a 2-2 record with two days to go in the championship series.

It came about Tuesday night when previously unbeaten Puerto Rico lost twice, first 5-4 to Cuba in the completion of a game suspended by a spectator ruckus the night before, and then in the nightcap of the regularly scheduled Tuesday doubleheader, 11-3 to Panama. In the middle game, Venezuela downed Cuba 8-1.

Indian Chieftain Warns His Braves

CLEVELAND (AP)—Frank Lane has served warning. Holdouts who delay signing as an excuse to report late to the Cleveland Indian training camp may find it an expensive practice.

The Tribe general manager notified six unsigned players that "for every day of practice they miss after March 1, my offer will be $100 less."

Two holdouts, Minnie Minoso and Chico Carrasquel, are playing in the Caribbean series in Puerto Rico. Other holdouts are Bobby Avila, Gene Woodling, Vic Wertz and Jim Hegan.

High School Star and Coach May Team Up in College, too

Central Press Assn.

COLUMBUS — Columbus and Ohio sports fans soon should know the answers to these burning questions:

What college will Jerry Lucas, Middletown High School's fabulously basketball center, attend?

And where will Paul Walker, who is presently guiding the 6-10 Lucas and the Mighty Middies to their third straight state high school basketball title, be coaching next year?

Lucas and Walker, here recently to be honored by the Columbus Touchdown club as the nation's top high school basketball player and coach, talked freely but, unfortunately, too generally about their future. They were careful not to shed too much light on the matter.

If they are set on their next step in the basketball world, both Lucas and Walker succeed in carefully veiling the fact.

EXPERTS on such matters say that Lucas is a better basketball player than the likes of Wilt Chamberlain, Oscar Robertson or Elgin Baylor were as high school seniors, Lucas, by the way, bids fair to shatter Chamberlain's high school scoring record of 2,252 points within the next week or so.

Reports that the Cincinnati Royals of the National Basketball Association already have "drafted" Lucas for service after his college days are concluded are flattering indeed to the Mid-division phenom.

In much the same manner, the Philadelphia Warriors are said to own "first call" on Chamberlain. Lucas, discussing his future, says, "I would like to play my college basketball for Walker. I like the style of game he coaches."

And Walker chimed in with, "I have a good setup at Middletown, but if the right college job comes along, I would consider it. Any man likes to go up the ladder in his profession. After all, basketball is my business."

THE COLORFUL Walker has been teaching winning basketball at Middletown for 12 years—or nine before Lucas joined the Middies' ranks. Of their first 278 games under the Walk er rind, the Middletown quintet won 239, an admirable record.

Little wonder that veteran basketball observers have placed the "can't miss" tag on both Lucas and Walker as far as college is concerned, whether they sever their affiliation at the end of the current high school season or enter the collegiate wars together.

Linked with the Lucas - Walker combine in speculation are such schools as Ohio State, University of Cincinnati and Cornell. These may or may not be mere guesses.

The m o d e r n pair apparent ly has the spectators as befuddled as the Middies have the opposition.

Giardello Slated To Test Szuzina

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Joey Giardello, keeping in trim for what he hopes will be an early crack at the middleweight title, meets Franz Szuzina, hard punching, aggressive German fighter, tonight in a televised 10-round.

In their only previous meeting, Giardello eked out a split decision. Unbeaten in his last 14 bouts, Giardello is risking all in what for him can mean nothing more than a "pay day."

Should the 27-year-old German, who has licked the likes of Virgil J. King and Randy Sandy, prove an upset, Giardello might find himself on the outside as his title aspirations are concerned.

Baseball Managers Speak

Bosox Chief Sees Yanks in Trouble

By MIKE HIGGINS
Boston Red Sox Manager

DALLAS (AP)—I look for a close race in the American League this season, with the New York Yankees getting a much better battle than last year from our own Red Sox, Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland. Paul Richards and his Orioles can cause concern for everyone, too.

I think the Red Sox will be stronger than last year because, first of all, we will open the 1958 season with a much better infield than we had a year ago at this time. We know now we have one of the best third basemen in the league, if not the best, in Frank Malzone. Then, too, we have Ken Aspromonte, who looks like he can become a fine second baseman.

I know we haven't been very busy in the trade market but the one deal we did make I think is bound to help us. We gave up first baseman Norm Zauchin and Eddie Paskier, a very promising young outfielder, for Pete Runnels. Pete is bound to prove very valuable to us because he is equally adept at playing first, second, third or short. That's the kind of player a manager likes to have on his club.

On the whole I would say we have a veteran club. However, we have several rookies who have excellent chances to stick. One is Aspromonte, who impressed so much after his recall from San Francisco last September. He was the batting champion of the Pacific Coast League with a .334 average.

This is the year Haywood Sullivan may make it behind the plate. I plan to give him a real shot at it, anyway. Sullivan turned in a fine performance both offensively and defensively with San Francisco last year and should give Sammy White and Pete Daley a good run for a catching berth.

At first base we have Dick Gernert and, of course, Runnels. Frank Kellert, who was with the Dodgers and Cubs, and is up from San Francisco, also is a candidate. In addition to Aspromonte, we are protected at second with Ted Lepcio and Billy Consolo, who had his best year in 1957. Billy Klaus returns as our veteran shortstop and Consolo also is available there.

I expect our pitching to be better. Our biggest need is one or two left-handers. At present we have Frank Baumann who gave evidence he may be over his arm trouble by winning 10 games with Oklahoma City last season. We also have Bob Smith who had six shutouts among 13 victories at San Francisco. Leo Kiely seems headed for a comeback after 21 victories with the Seals.

Our righthanded pitching affairs no problem. Tom Brewer, Frank Sullivan, Willard Nixon, young Dave Sisler and Mike Fornieles form a sturdy staff.

We have Ike Delock for the bullpen and he's one of the best, while Murray Wall turned in fine relief work after joining our club last August.

I've held mention of the outfield until now because in Ted Williams' Jaws and Jack Jensen we have the finest outfield in the league. Behind this top trio we

Grange Nets $85 On Sale Lunch

Program also Given At Selden Grange

Selden Grange cleared more than $85 on the lunch it served at the Four Star Hereford Sale at the Fairground here Monday, the home economics committee reported at Tuesday night's regular meeting.

Master Ralph Nesley announced the Pomona Grange meeting to be held Thursday, in the Farm Bureau auditorium.

He stated that a Pomona degree team being organized to include representatives from each Grange in the county. This team is to be composed of youth from 14 to 30 years of age. Selden Grange is to be represented by Macky and Carol McDonald and Roger Sollars, their sons.

Also announced were the annual meetings of Grange Services on Feb. 26, with Chester Alspach as the speaker, and the annual meeting of Grange Mutual Casualty Co., with Dr. James Hay, Ohio director of agriculture, as the luncheon speaker. Both meetings will be held at the Southern Hotel in Columbus.

COMMUNICATIONS were read from the Magnetic Springs Foundation, announcing the new administrative appointments since the death of Dr. K. W. Keever. The medical director is Dr. Richard Burk, and the administrator, Daniel L. Calnan. The Magnetic Springs Foundation is largely maintained by contributions from the Granges of Ohio. They have already given over $20,000 this year.

In the absence of the lecturer, Mrs. Lorene Sollars arranged a brief program. The first part was the reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg address. In her comments she stressed how important it is that we of the present generation should study and apply the thoughts that Lincoln sought to convey in that brief memorial address.

The second part of the program was an examination of the group for Ohio drivers' license. Most of the members received passing grades but they were not all 100 per cent - evidence that more such programs are needed.

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bower, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sollars, Mr. and Mrs. Matt McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Macky McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd McLain, Mrs. Inez McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Alice Wical, Miss Ethel Bower and Clyde Bower.

IOOF Lodge Here Planning Expansion

Tuesday was family night again for the Independent Order of Odd Fellows here.

It started with a supper in the lodge room, 115½ N. Main St., with around 40 Odd Fellows, Rebekahs and their families at the tables.

Members of the Imperial Rebekah Lodge were guests.

Following the supper, particular attention was given to a state-wide campaign to increase the IOOF membership. It was pointed out that since an Ohioan, James M. Elliott of Sebring, is the Sovereign grand master of the order, his appeal for "Every member to bring in two new members" should be followed through.

Some of the older members of both the IOOF and Rebekah lodges recounted some of their experiences and told what the lodges have meant to them.

The IOOF lodge here, once one of the strongest fraternal organizations in the community, was reactivated, after several years of inactivity, in 1953. It now has 25 active members, who expressed the hope that the present membership campaign will at least double that number in the near future.

Police arrested George Hamlin, 32, of Frankfort, Tuesday, charged with attempting to pass a bogus $10 check at a service station here.

Eugene Williams, operator of the station, located at 1004 S. Fayette St., signed the affidavit against Hamlin. Hamlin was accused of using the name of Wackman Iron and Metal Yard to sign the check. An attendant at the service station identified Hamlin Tuesday, police said.

Hamlin had other filled-out checks in the $10-$15 range in his possession at the time of his arrest, all "signed" by Wackman Iron and Metal, police said.

He will appear in Municipal Court.

Contractor Speaks to Eastside PTA

All New City Schools May Be Ready by Fall

Members of the Eastside Parent Teacher Assn. today have a better conception of what the new elementary school building at Elm and Willard Sts. will be like.

But, more to the point, they were given hope that it may be completed in time for the start of school next fall.

William E. Williams of the Sever-Williams Construction Co., which has the contract for building this school, another in Belle Aire and additions to the Cherry Hill and Rose Avenue schools, told the PTA at its meeting in the old Eastside School Tuesday night, that the company hopes to have the entire program completed by September.

However, he emphasized that progress depends largely on the weather. The weather also holds the key to the time what work can be started, he said.

Williams said that the two additions probably will be finished first, then the Belle Aire School and finally the new Eastside School. He explained that this is the probable order because of the size of the projects.

It was made plain that the work on all the projects will be started as soon as the weather is suitable.

PLANS FOR THE BUILDINGS, and their construction, were described in considerable detail in order that the people might get a better idea of what they will look like and what they will provide in the way of space. He showed samples of the brick to be used in the Eastside building and the material that will be used on the inside walls.

Williams was introduced by Otis B. Core, program chairman for this meeting.

Mrs. Dwight Roads explained the economic workshop that is designed to prepare teachers to teach the fundamentals of economics as part of the regular school curriculum in both elementary and high schools. She pointed out that representatives of business, industry, labor, agriculture and education are cooperating in the workshop program.

The PTA endorsed a proposed 3.6-mill levy for teachers' pay raises and for hiring new teachers, as explained by Charles Penney, city school board member, who was a guest at the meeting.

Three Here Named On GOP Council

Mrs. Margaret Woodson, 1013 E. Temple St., Mrs. Fern Walton, 815 E. Faist St., and James Jackson will be the Fayette County representatives on a new state-wide political organization, which was born last Saturday at a meeting in Columbus.

The new organization, named the Ohio Republican Council, is headed by Lawrence O. Payne of Cleveland, associate editor of the Cleveland Call & Post.

Aims of the organization were expressed by William O. Walker, member of the Republican State Central Committee and publisher of the Call & Post. He said: "There is no room in politics for the independent. We, as a race, have to fight for our civil rights within the framework of the two major political parties. The man who dodges the primary and fails to take sides doesn't qualify himself for any reward from either political party."

Hamlin had other filled-out checks in the $10-$15 range in his possession at the time of his arrest, all "signed" by Wackman Iron and Metal, police said.

Three Here Named On GOP Council

Mrs. Margaret Woodson, 1013 E. Temple St., Mrs. Fern Walton, 815 E. Faist St., and James Jackson will be the Fayette County representatives on a new state-wide political organization, which was born last Saturday at a meeting in Columbus.

The new organization, named the Ohio Republican Council, is headed by Lawrence O. Payne of Cleveland, associate editor of the Cleveland Call & Post.

Aims of the organization were expressed by William O. Walker, member of the Republican State Central Committee and publisher of the Call & Post. He said: "There is no room in politics for the independent. We, as a race, have to fight for our civil rights within the framework of the two major political parties. The man who dodges the primary and fails to take sides doesn't qualify himself for any reward from either political party."

Hamlin had other filled-out checks in the $10-$15 range in his possession at the time of his arrest, all "signed" by Wackman Iron and Metal, police said.

He will appear in Municipal Court.
